Maps

There are two maps in this document that may be of help. One map corresponds to Valparaiso, with lodging and eating indications, and routes from the Bus terminal to the Diego de Almagro Hotel. See below for an explanation of each highlighted zone on the map.

By Taxi:

The official taxi line for the Airport has a distinctive blue sign and may transport you to Viña del Mar and Valparaíso directly. They are parked just outside the main building.

Contact telephone: 56-02-6019880.

Cost: $ 65000.- CLP or, approximately US$ 130, (Viña del Mar or Valparaíso)

Capacity for four (4) persons (if you come with some other person you could share the cost).

Car Rental:

At the airport you may contact directly the following agencies:

Alamo, Avis, Budget, Econorent, Hertz and Rosselot.

Their counters are on the first floor of the airport, at the Arrivals area.

Driving to Valparaíso or Viña del Mar:

You must take the highway (Carretera 68) towards Valparaiso/Viña del Mar. There are two tunnels to traverse and two tolls ($1700 CLP each US$ 3.5 approx) When nearing the two coastal cities you will find yourself in a bifurcation (at km 96 approx) which lead to Valparaíso (left fork) and Viña del Mar (right fork).

Take the left fork (for Valparaiso), and you will arrive to the city (after a long descent), via the Jose Santos Ossa highway, right up to the Avenida Argentina, a straight main street, which if you follow without turning, will lead you directly towards the coast (see image). Before reaching the end of Avenida Argentina, (approximately 10 blocks) take the left lane, stop at the last traffic light, and turn into the main coastal avenue (Avenida Errázuriz). (see map)

After the first traffic light down that street (immediately after your turn), you must keep to the left lane and to a second traffic light (the right lane goes on directly without stopping). Once you take that left lane and pass that traffic light you will find the name of your street is now Avenida Brasil. You must advance until you reach Pudeto street, turn right, head down two blocks (2) until Avenida Errázuriz. Once there you must turn right again and head down Avenida Errázuriz two blocks until the Diego de Almagro Hotel at the intersection with Molina Street. There is no parking place on Avenida Errázuriz as it is a main street, so once again turn right, down Molina street and at mid-block you will encounter the entrance to the Hotel on your right, and its internal parking place. If there is no space to park there, you will certainly receive indications from the concierge as to where you may leave your car. If by any chance you miss the turn at Pudeto, just keep on, and at the first opportunity turn right until reaching Avenida Errázuriz (it's a double avenue with Palm trees) and turn right again to head down until the Diego de Almagro Hotel on Molina Street.
